

NFL DRAFT/TEAM EVALUATIONS

	2010	DENVER BRONCOS GRADE: C
PICK NO.	PLAYER	COMMENTS	POSITION	HEIGHT	WEIGHT	SCHOOL
22	DEMARYIUS THOMAS	Can't argue with this Pick, although he may not pay the immediate dividends that they anticipate. He is from a running O, and does not have great route running skills. Be patient fans, he may not explode until his second season.	WR	6'3	225	GEORGIA TECH
25	TIM TEBOW	I loved TEBOW in college. And I do think he can be molded into an NFL QB. But if he gets pushed into significant action as a Rookie it could get ugly... very ugly.	QB	6'3	235	FLORIDA
45	ZANE BEADLES	This is definitely a reach of a Pick. BEADLES is versatile, and has better than average talent. He also will be a good fit for a Zone Blocking scheme. But a TOP 50 Pick... give me a break.	T/G	6'4	310	UTAH
80	J.D. WALTON	WALTON is an active, zone blocking OC, who could be the most ready to step right in and help the team. He will be a Godsend in protecting the pocket from the middle of the line.	OC	6'3	300	BAYLOR
87	ERIC DECKER	If his foot is really set to go by August this could be a great Pick. He may be more ready to contribute as a Rookie than THOMAS. He has great size, reliable hands, runs precise routes and has better speed than you might think. Great Pick.	WR	6'3	215	MINNESOTA
137	PERRISH COX	Shortly after I heard a speech by JOSH about adding quality people to the roster, they grabbed a guy with more baggage than a porter. If they can keep him clean, and focused this is a steal, but it is a potential character gamble.	CB/RS	5'11	195	OKLAHOMA STATE
183	ERIC OLSEN	Another over-achieving interior OL, just made for zone blocking. He's an average talent, but a tenacious competitor. He has a chance to make the team as a back-up at all 3 inside	C/G	6'4	305	NOTRE DAME
225	SYD'QUAN THOMPSON	I like this Pick a lot. THOMPSON is tough as nails, and very physical for his size. He also shows better than average cover skills. His speed is an issue, but he could play in the Nickel package and on ST.	CB	5'9	185	CAL
232	JAMMIE KIRLEW	This late he's a nice selection. He has some natural pass-rush ability and may be athletic enough to transition to a pass-rush OLB in the 3-4 scheme. Also has ST coverage unit potential.	OLB	6'1	260	INDIANA

I find this DRAFT a bit curious for it's lack of a sense of urgency to improve the team, right away. The bulk of their selections would seem to be players who need development and may not be ready to contribute a lot in their Rookie seasons. I wonder if PAT BOWLEN is going to be as patient as JOSH seems to think he will be. I have a strong hunch the fans won't be in a mood to wait until next year (2011) for First Rounders THOMAS and TEBOW to develop their pro game skills. The interesting McDANIELS era continues in the Mile High City, with this DRAFT class.